20 Per OFF GEMS!

O need to remind you bow rare it is to buy first-quality Diamonds under their regular value. More staple than gold bullion-imperishable—and rilways worth their price—yet this "Retring Sale" offers an opportunity to purchase these precious stones at 20 per cent discount. Our mame has never been associated with goods of uncertain value or with questionable methods—and never will be. This fact should be sufficient guarantee as to the genulaeness of these reductions. No equal opportunity has ever been granted to judiciously invest in Diamonds.

Preparations for New York's Two International Weddings-Some

Secretary Whitney, and Mr. Almeric Hugh Paget, youngest son of the late Lord Al-Anglesey, will be married in St. Thomas Church, New York city, Tuesday, November 12, at noon. Miss Whitney has chosen for her bridesmaids Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt, Miss Emily Vanderbilt Sloane, Miss Beatrice Bend, Miss Barney and Miss Dim-ock, her cousins, and Miss Brown. Mr. Paget's attendants will include Mr. Henry Payne Whitney, brother of the bride; Mr. Winthrop Rutherfurd, Mr. H. Maitland Kersey, Mr. Goold Hoyt, Mr. William Cutting, jr., and Mr. John C. Furman. Mr. Paget has also asked two of his iriends from St. Paul to act as ushers. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of Mr. Whitney, No. 2 West 57th

The approaching marriage of Miss Con-The approaching marriage of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough increases in interest as the time draws nearer. It is to be a white wedding throughout. Delicate white blossoms will be massed in the chancel of St. Thomas' Church, New York, Wednesday noon, November 6. Big nosegays of orange blossoms, white roses and lilies of the valley, tied with white ribbons to long wands, will be placed in the pews.

soms, white roses and illies of the valley, tied with white ribbons to long wands, will be placed in the pews.

One of the undecided points is whether the youthful bride shall simply be preceded by her bridesmaids, the Misses Marie Winthrop, Evelyn Burden, Elsa Bronson, Daisy Post, May Goelet, Katherine Duer and Evelyn Jay, or by them with the ushers in advance. If the former fashion is decided on, the ushers will line the alsie, as is done in London sometimes. The gowns of both the bride and bridesmaids are being made at two of the most fashionable mantua makers in New York. The bridesmaids are to be arrayed in white satin. The skirts will be in the latest flaring fashion, trimmed with the daintiest frillings of white chiffon. The corsages are to be of the new jacket style, with short, full skirts and large sleeves. With these will be fichus of white chiffon, edged with lace. The jackets will be secured with large jeweled buttons. The evident idea of the wedding is to have it as far as possible of the Louis XVI epoch, and the bride's gown will be, like those of the bridesmaids, of the Marie Antoinette style. The furnishings of the new house at Madison avenue and 72d street are of the Louis XVI period, and the prevailing hues will accord perfectly with the gowns of the bridal party.

The engagement of Congressman Dolliver of Lowe and Miss Louise Piersen of Fort The engagement of Congressman Dollive of Iowa and Miss Louise Pierson of Fort Dodge, Iowa, has been announced. Miss Pierson is a niece of Dr. A. M. Cushing of Springfield, Mass., and of Judge Pierson of Holyoke.
